Youth Code of Conduct

When attending an annual Summit, as a Davidson student I will:

- be polite
- express my opinion positively
- be respectful
- respect the thoughts of others even if I don't agree
- listen with an open mind
- watch out for each other and make sure everyone feels included
- be in control of myself
- treat others the way I want to be treated
- follow all of the safety rules
- laugh with people - not at people
- have fun!

Parent Code of Conduct

When attending an annual Summit, as a Davidson parent I will:

- be respectful of all Davidson youth, parents, presenters, and Davidson Institute staff
- be mindful of the location and actions of my Davidson youth; realize when their actions are disruptive to others and take necessary steps to correct the behavior
- make every effort to get my Davidson youth to attend scheduled sessions, as well as arrive and pick-up my Davidson youth on time
- remember that Davidson Institute has created rules for valid reasons
- recognize that it is not appropriate to ask staff to make exceptions, as it is unfair to other attendees,
- be respectful of presenters' time during their presentation, and recognize that many other parents may have comments and questions to share
- listen with an open mind and learn from others
- behave in a way that sets a positive example for others attending the Summit

Alumni Code of Conduct

Alumni and guests are expected to abide by the following code while in attendance at an annual Summit. The goal is to model appropriate behavior for the group as a whole.

- be respectful of all Davidson youth, alumni, parents, presenters, and Davidson Institute staff
- be mindful of your own actions and language; the Summit is a family event with many young attendees
- remember that Davidson Institute has created rules for valid reasons
- recognize that it is not appropriate to ask staff to make exceptions, as it is unfair to other attendees,
- listen with an open mind and learn from others
- behave in a way that sets a positive example for others attending the Summit
